

3172

ABSTRACT

Cycle pants include a body portion having a waist opening, a crotch portion and a seat portion along with a 5 breathable cushion attached to an inside surface of the body portion which includes a perineal portion covering the crotch portion and the buttocks portion covering the seat portion. The buttocks portion has a width greater than the perineal portion and includes two spaced apart lobes for providing 10 flexible anatomical support.